SUMMER READING BOOKWORM

SUMMER 2016

VOLUME 2, ISSUE 2

Summer reading starts today! Let's make reading this summer fun! Make a bookworm for each of your children as a summer reading incentive.

First put summer reading coupons on the back of colored cut out circles. The coupons can be for anything (30 minutes of screen time, ice cream, a new book, etc.). Put the circles in an envelope with their name on it.

Let the kids decorate one circle to be the head of their bookworm and put it up on a wall to get started.

When the kids read a book, they will write it down on their list of books read (<http://simpleasthatblog.com/2015/05/summer-reading-printables.html>). If you think it was a long enough, hard enough book (at their level) then they get to choose a circle out of the envelope, pull off the coupon and add the circle to their bookworm (use painters tape so as not to damage the wall). If it was an easy peasy book for them they can still write it down, but will need to combine it with another book in order to earn a circle for their bookworm.
